Arbitrator Profile

While some of you may be colleagues or know each other from serving on arbitration cases, we'd like to introduce you to more of your peer arbitrators by profiling an NFA arbitrator in each one of our Arbitrator Updates. This edition of the Arbitrator Update will feature Henry Maringer, president and founder of Woodhaven Associates LTD, a consulting firm in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Henry Maringer

Henry Maringer has over thirty years experience in the futures industry and has worked both in the U.S. and Europe for various financial institutions. He has served on the COMEX Board of Directors, the FIA Executive Committee and numerous other boards for both U.S. and U.K. exchanges.

Maringer, who has been an arbitrator on our roster since 2002, was initially motivated to become an NFA arbitrator because he wanted a chance to serve the futures industry. Maringer says that over the decades, the industry has been very good to him and has offered him numerous opportunities. As a result, Maringer feels an obligation to offer the industry the benefits of his expertise and experience in resolving industry disputes.

In addition to the opportunity to give back to the industry, Maringer says being part of the arbitration process provides him with personal satisfaction and enrichment. Throughout the process, Maringer works diligently at sifting through the evidence and focusing on the relevant information. At the conclusion of each case, Maringer feels rewarded because he is able to "render a just and unbiased decision based on the facts." For Maringer, this is the most fulfilling aspect of serving on arbitration cases. However, this process is not always easy, and in Maringer's opinion, it is important "to avoid drawing premature conclusions and to allow the facts to be presented and fully debated at the hearing."

Henry Maringer's dedication to render informed and unbiased decisions makes him an invaluable asset to NFA. Arbitrators committed to serving the futures industry, like Maringer, help make NFA's arbitration program the success it is today.
